Volunteers for Outdoor California

2010 Project Season

July 23-25

Las Trampas Regional Wilderness, East Bay Regional Park District

Volunteers for Outdoor California's first full project of the season is in the Las Trampas Regional Wilderness, one of the East Bay Regional Park District gems. Just minutes away from San Ramon, this park feels remote and will definitely refresh your spirit. It offers a great view of both Mt Diablo and San Francisco from the trail

August 20-22

Corona Heights, San Francisco Rec & Park

Corona Heights Park is near the Castro, Cole Valley, and Haight-Ashbury Districts in San Francisco and boasts some of the best views in the city. This well-loved park gets a lot of foot traffic and its trails are suffering badly from erosion. V-O-Cal volunteers will help repair some existing trails and will build a new trail to provide access from 15th St.

September 17-19 (subject to confirmation)
Miwok Trail, Golden Gate National Recreation Area

In 2009, V-O-Cal worked on the State Parks side of the Miwok Trail. Join us for a similar effort in the National Park.

Rescheduled to 2011
Stay tuned for notification of replacement project

October 15-17

Moore Creek, Napa County Parks and Open Space District

V-O-Cal volunteers will return to Moore Creek and work again with the Napa County Parks and Open Space & Park District. Let's see if we can make 2010 as much fun as the 2009 project!
